President of the Bank Says That Dead Cashier Had Loaned Thousands of Dollars to Pennsylvania Politicians, But Did Not Think Shortage So Great

Pittsburg, Oct. 18.—After an investigation of the books of the Enterprise National bank, on Beaver avenue, Allegheny, which disclosed the bank insolvent, T. Lee Clarke, who for years was cashier of the institution went home last night and after spending a sleepless night shot himself in the forehead today, dying this afternoon.

An hour before the announcement of his death was received at the bank a telegram came from the comptroller of currency closing the doors of the bank.

Following close upon the exciting events in Lower Allegheny came the announcement from President of the Bank Fred Gwynner that Clarke had loaned thousands of dollars to Pennsylvania politicians and that he himself had endorsed a note for $50,000 yesterday for Clarke, concluding that if Clarke's shortage was only $100,000 he would gladly pay it himself. The bank has state deposits which amount to about $800,000. Clarke always held positions of the highest honor and trust in the community. He was a member of the United Presbyterian church, being a member of the board of trustees. He had always taken an active interest in the work of the church and was the heaviest contributor.

New York's proportion of the loan will be about $50,000,000.

Interstate Commerce Commission Wishes to Show Connection Between the Railroads and the Refrigerator Car Lines—Great Battle May Be Expected

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—What promises to extend into a legal and legislative battle against private car lines was precipitated by the interstate commerce commission by its course taken today at the beginning of the hearing instituted to show the connection between the refrigerator car lines and the railroads.

Counsel for the commission directed every effort to bring out the fact that the great railroad systems owning and operating their own refrigerator lines give lower rates than on the roads operating in connection with private car lines. In this the railroads, notably, the Illinois Central and the Pennsylvania, the through traffic and freight managers who were on the stand the greater part of the day, apparently aided the commission. As a result there were many sharp tilts between the counsel for the commission and the attorneys for the Armour car lines and other private companies.

The action of the commission in initiating and prosecuting the complaints, is for the double purpose of establishing its jurisdiction over private car lines and correcting the evils complained of. The chief contest is expected over the question of jurisdiction.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 18.—Richmond today threw open her gates to President Roosevelt and during a seven hour stay, state and city officials and citizens accorded him a welcome hearty and sincere. His entry into the city was the signal for a wild demonstration from the multitude and the welcoming enthusiasm only ceased when the train continued on the journey south. Mrs. Roosevelt shared in the honors. Mrs. Montague, wife of Governor Montague, gave a reception in her honor at the executive mansion.

The president made several addresses, one being to a gathering of negroes. In his speeches he paid tribute to the Confederate veterans and voiced his appreciation of the economic and political progress of the South since the civil war. He pointed to his ancestry in which the Northern and Southern blood mingled, and to his birth in the East and life in the West. He spoke of the preponderance of Southern blood in his regiment in Cuba, and reiterated the principle of Southern blood to all. In his talk to the negroes he congratulated them on the progress of their race. The president will speak at Raleigh tomorrow.

As he alighted from his carriage at a side entrance to the train shed he assisted Mrs. Roosevelt out and then smiled and raised his hat to the half-hundred spectators who had gathered to see his departure. Just before the train moved out, the president stepped from the observation room to the rear platform of his car and smilingly bowed acknowledgements to the flutter of handkerchiefs of the crowd.

AMERICANS MAY FISH

Settlement of New Foundland Matter Practically Assured.

ROOT AND DURAND CONFER

Ships of American Register are Ships of the Highest Form of Nationality and Carry With Them Not Only License to Trade, Also Fishing License.

Washington, Oct. 18.—After a conference between Sir Mortimer Durand, British ambassador, and Secretary Root, it was announced that a speedy and satisfactory solution of the Gloucester-New Foundland fishing controversy is in sight. It seems that New Foundland's authorities directed that no vessels of American register be allowed to fish on the ground that they have never been allowed in the past.

Prior to this time they have been allowed to fish for nothing but bait in New Foundland waters. They are now prevented by law from doing this.

Secretary Root stated that ships of American register are ships of the highest forms of nationality and carry with them not only a license to trade, but also a regular fishing license. As soon as this fact is made clear to New Foundland authorities it is expected that all objections will be withdrawn. Meantime the American fishermen, with the approval of the state department will be instructed to continue fishing.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY

New Phase in Insurance Investigations.

STATE WILL STEP IN

Young Telephone Operator Is Alleged to Have Given False Testimony.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY CALLED

George B. Plunkett Swears That He Did Not Sign a Voucher for $901 Paid to Mutual Life Insurance Company and Thereby Invites Trouble for Himself.

New York, Oct. 18.—The district attorney's office was called to aid the insurance investigating committee today and evidence of alleged perjury of one of the witnesses was placed in its hands. The witness in question was George B. Plunkett, an 18-year old telephone operator in the employ of L. W. Lawrence, from whom the Mutual Life purchased a great deal of stationery. Among the vouchers introduced in yesterday's testimony was one for $901 signed by George Plunkett.

Plunkett appeared on the witness stand today and he denied that he ever signed the voucher or ever received any money from the Mutual Life. Hughes asked Plunkett to write his name, which he did, and the similarity of the signatures was called to the attention of the committee. Shortly afterwards Mr. Rand, who had been summoned from the district attorney's office, appeared and for a time critically examined both signatures. He made no further statement than that the matter was now out of the hands of the committee and "up to the district attorney's office."

During the day a passage at arms occurred between Counsel Hughson and James M. Beck, counsel for McCurdy. Beck accused Hughes of misleading the public by not following out the lines of his interrogations to the end, and asserted that he dropped the subject before the witness had time to explain.

Chairman Armstrong said the committee wanted all the information it could obtain and the witness had placed himself in by continued evasive answers.

McCurdy was on the stand again today, but his testimony contained nothing sensational.

THEY'RE NOT SO VALUABLE

Washington, Oct. 18.—That the costly gifts showered by oriental potentates upon Miss Alice Roosevelt are nothing but imitations and that the collection is trash is the startling assertion made today by Secretary Taft.

"The gifts Miss Roosevelt received abroad are counterfeits, rubbish and junk," said Secretary Taft this morning. "Up to the time I left the party her entire collection of presents could be bought in this country for $150. The most valuable gift she received were the pearls given by the Sultan of Sulu and all four of these were not worth more than $50."

In addition to this the estate of another brother, the editor of the Belfast Morning News, consisting of $60,000 in cash, awaited Wilson at New York.

Five Mexican officials rowed to Santa Tomaso where the alleged smuggler was reported to be in from Ensenada. As the rowboat approached, the Juanita's men shouted to the officers to keep away, and then fired a volley of rifle shots which did no harm. The revenue men shot back, following it with a second volley. The Juanita was hit in several places in the cabin, masts and alongside. The situation of the captured men is regarded as serious as there have been previous charges against one of them in Mexico.
